WORTH QUOTING

We make a living by what we get, but we make a life by what we give.

The only thing more expensive than education is ignorance.

The only time some people won't pass the buck is when there is a collection.

Physical strength is measured by what we can carry; spiritual, by what one can bear.

Pastor Speaks

Christianity & Graham II

'Christ is the answer" is a slogan which Billy Graham frequently repeats. One day it is alleged a questioner asked Billy Graham just how Christ was the answer to all of life's pressing problems. Graham replied in words like these, 'I do not believe that Christianity can immediately solve all of life's problems, but I do feel that ultimately it holds the key to the solution of every one,"

When the leavening influence of Christianity thoroughly saturates a civilization, it will begin to solve some of the economic, social, and moral problems that can engulf our own country.

One such problem is that of dealing with Phase II of President Nixon's economic program. A noted communist has said that the President's controls will not work unless the American people support it. This means that the wage-price plan will depend upon voluntary co-operation. If labor, management, or the public in general decide they don't want to support this, each group can attack the President's plan and blast vast holes in any positive progress to be made. One problem that can prevent voluntary co-operation by the public, labor, or management is pure selfishness.

The only means of countering pure selfishness is to allow the teachings of Jesus Christ to be applied in our lives. Psychiatry, group therapy, threats, and pep pills really cannot counter selfishness. Only the entrance of Jesus Christ into a person's life can truly change him within.

Meeting and serving Jesus Christ is the only means by which a person can really be delivered from selfishness. In that sense Christianity can indeed hold the key to helping pull our nation together at this time. If each of us wants to pull in his own direction, there is really nothing to stop us. If the teachings of Jesus Christ which urge us not to be concerned merely about our own affairs can permeate our whole country, much good can be obtained, and Phase II of the President's program can go ahead unhindered.

Jesus Christ is ultimately the answer to selfishness. When he is allowed to enter a life and take over that life, he changes one's outlook from purely personal to wholly other. That's a change that this whole country can use a lot more of.

THE BIBLE SPEAKS

LAW OF HARVEST

Lesson for November 14, 1971

Background Scripture: Exodus 20:1-20; Romans 2:12-16; 3: 21-26; Galatians 6:7-10

Devotional Reading: Psalms 75

Heinrich Heine, the German poet, let it be known that he did not worry very much about "the world to come" beyond death. Asked why he was so confident, he replied "C'est son metier" ("It is his trade!") Why worry about judgment when God is so gracious and forgiving by his very nature?

The Game Of 'Grace'

For some people grace is a game. They assume that grace is automatic, that, in a sense, God has to give it to us when we want it because it is his nature to give it to us and he cannot transgress against his own nature. Following this line of logic, I live as I please and do not worry about the consequences because the forgiveness of God is always there for the taking.

This, however, is a distortion of the reality of grace. As Paul says to the Galatians: "Do not be deceived; God is not mocked..." (6:7).

What some people fail to understand is that just as God has ordained laws that govern the processes of nature, so also there are certain moral laws that are inherent in the universe. One of these we might call the law of "identical harvest," and Paul states this law simply: ". . . for whatever a man sows, that he will also reap" (Galatians 6:7b).

A man was standing in his yard shaking his head sadly at the flower bed of marigolds. He had wanted a bed of roses. "Oh," said a sympathetic neighbor, "did you plant roses?" "No," replied the man, "I planted marigold seeds, but I so hoped they'd come up roses."

Reaping What We Sow

Perhaps many of us are like that man: we want to reap something else than we have sowed. The fact is, however, God has ordained the universe according to the law of "identical harvest" — what we sow determines what we reap. God's grace can restore our relationship with himself, it can bring us his forgiveness, but it does not change the consequences of our acts.

Jesus also indicated a law of "identical harvest" in his teachings. He spoke of life beyond

Not included in the table above, for Justice of the Peace, Mrs. Geraldine R. Mitchell received a total of 992 votes and D. T. Kanipe received a total vote of 705. There were several write-in votes for several different candidates on the official ballot, but not enough to make any difference in the election of the candidates, and as usual, it was necessary to mark several ballots void.

Speed Zone Unchanged

District Engineer J. H. Phillips announced today that the Highway Department, through the District Traffic Engineer, had completed traffic and engineering studies on a two-mile section of Primary Route 26 in Appomattox County from the north corporate limits of Appomattox to two miles north. The District Engineer went on to state that citizens living on this stretch of road had petitioned the Highway Department to establish a new speed zone. Also, the Appomattox County Board of Supervisors had requested that such a study be made looking toward a reduced speed zone.

Mr. Phillips stated that the completion of the study which was conducted by the Central Office in Richmond, revealed the fact that there was not sufficient justification to change the speed zone from the present 55 - 45 miles per hour. Mr. Phillips said that when establishing speed zones, the Virginia Department of Highways must conduct traffic and engineering studies as required by law and set forth in the Code of Virginia. This was done and it was determined that the 55-45 miles per hour speed zone should remain.
